TO BE DEVELOPED.

S. A. L. to Put on a Line of Steamers Between Baltimore and Richmond.

We learn upon fair authority that the Seaboard Air Line will have in operation by December 1st a line of steamers plying between Richmond and Baltimore and touching the principal landings on the James river each trip.

It is said further that the Seaboard Air Line has three boats to put into this service, so it is more than likely three return trips will be the weekly schedule.

The Claremont Herald of November 14th, 1895, says:
The reason for the Seaboard's action is assigned to the close rivalry between it and the Southern railway. The latter now has a through line from Richmond to Baltimore by way of the West Point Terminal and the York River line.

The Seaboard Air Line will, if this report be founded upon, do the James river in the country great good, as it believes in judiciously advertising territory through which it passes. The people along the river will welcome the new line and do all they can to aid it.

An Old Offender Captured.

Yesterday Keziah Bell, a female huckster in the market, was caught in a coop of chickens and put them at her stand and went home. Yesterday morning, when she opened her stall, she missed one coop and began looking around for them. She finally looked around the Crawford street, near one of the country carts, and found the Clerk of the market, who kept a water for the man who owned them, and when he came up, the Clerk asked him some questions about the chickens, and not receiving a satisfactory answer, he recognized her as Anna Sanders, an old offender. He pleaded his innocence before His Honor and called on the Lord to witness that he was innocent, but His Honor took a different view of the case and sent him up for sixty days. When sentence was pronounced he exclaimed, "Good God, that will keep me till after Christmas." He was warned that if he repeated his language that he would remain until the flowers bloom again.

Monumental Rosebud Society.

The regular monthly meeting of the Monumental Rosebud Society will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The following programme will be rendered: recitation by seven young ladies (Misses Blanche Curdin, Jennie Reynolds, Bessie Carson, Edna Outten, Lellie Kilby, and Lellie Deans), entitled "The Rosebud of Brannon"; piano solo, by Miss Annie Stokes; recitation by Miss Nellie Howell; vocal quartette by Misses Emma Buchanan, Lucille Mahone, Annie Hall, and Julia White, accompanied by Miss Palmetto James; address by the Rev. J. L. Allison, of Court Street Presbyterian Church.

An Attempt to Rob.

For some time an effort has been made to enter the store of Mr. E. L. Lash, on County street, so Friday night Mr. Lash's clerk remained in the store all night. Near midnight he heard someone trying to force one of the rear windows. He waited until the man had the window up, and was pulling some hams out. He then approached the window and attempted to fire his pistol, but it failed to go off. The negro saw he was detected and fled the ham and ran. It was unfortunate that the pistol did not go off; it might have been a lesson to some of these night thieves.

The Shooting Continues.

The reckless shooting in Park View continues nightly. A few nights ago a bullet passed through one of Mr. Lewis Morris' windows and came near hitting some of the family. A gentleman who lives in that section said yesterday that Thursday night, while he was looking in a window, a bullet whistled past his head. There should be some officers appointed to patrol this part of the town for awhile at least until the parties who are doing the shooting are caught.

The Leap Year Query Answered.

Williamsburg, Va., Nov. 16, 1895. To the Editor of the Virginian, Portsmouth, Va.:

Dear Sir:—I submit the following answer to the query of A School Girl in today's Virginian:

Each year is composed of 365 days five hours forty-eight minutes and fifty-six seconds, and in order to allow for the extra five hours, etc., we add one day to every fourth year. If this extra time was exactly six hours, if it were correct, but it lacks eleven minutes, and four seconds each year, or in a century 1,100 minutes, 400 seconds, which makes 18 hours twenty-six minutes forty seconds, a gain of nearly a day. And to offset this gain a day was taken from each century. But again, this lacks five hours thirty-three minutes, twenty seconds of being a day, or about twenty-two hours in four centuries, and so every fourth century is allowed to retain four hours. Therefore every century not divisible by 400 is not a leap year.

Last night about 9:15 o'clock a negro man, who weighed about 200 pounds, walked up to five ladies who were coming from the market, grabbed hold of one of them, threw her to the ground, a pocket-book, containing $12, and took it off with it. One of the ladies grabbed him by the arm and tried to hold him, he hit at her and caused her to loose him, then he made his escape. Some gentlemen ran after him but failed to catch him. VIRGINIA BAPTISTS.

(Concluded from First Page.)

Felicia T. Hall, the sister of Rev. Addison Hall, who was the father of two missionaries to China, Mrs. Shuck and Mrs. Tobey, Dr. D. W. Doughtrey, baptized into the fellowship of the Lebanon Baptist Church by his uncle, the Rev. Addison Hall, in September, 1848. His father dying in 1843, just as he was about to send the subject of this sketch to his brother, Dr. D. W. Doughtrey, his education was afterwards completed at an Academy of high grade in his own country.

The Association resembled to-night at 7:30 o'clock, when the hymn "Jesus I love thy charming name," was sung.

Hon. J. Taylor Ellyson, of Richmond, next led in prayer.

Mr. George B. Taylor, missionary from China, was recognized.

Rev. T. H. Thomas, of Danville, submitted the report of the Committee on Education which was adopted.

"It is a matter of sincere congratulation and profound gratitude that the schools directly and indirectly associated with these indirectly associated persons during the last year have been so prosperous." There are to-day on the rolls the largest number of matriculates in its history, numbering already 205 students. Your committee ventures to raise the question as to whether the times are not ripe for a special and direct effort to furnish the colleges with a surer guarantee of long life and with larger and better facilities for its great and growing work. We are also gratified to learn that our theological seminary at Louisville is in a more flourishing condition than ever before, and that larger and growing endowment, better equipment than ever before, and the largest number of matriculates within its history, or that any other purely theological seminary in the world.

Professor Whitman of Columbia College, Washington, D. C., was the next speaker. He was followed by Prof. Boatwright, of Richmond College. Professor Boatwright spoke of the need of funds for the college and endeavored to establish a scientific department.

Rev. C. H. Ryland followed in an earnest appeal for an endowment for the college.

Mr. Julius Broadus offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That we hear with pleasure of the proposed plan of the trustees of Richmond College to enlarge and equip thoroughly the department of scientific interests, and we heartily commend the effort to raise $50,000 for this object.

The resolution was adopted.

Prayer was next offered by Rev. James Nelson, which concluded the evening session.

The pulpits of the different churches will be supplied to-morrow by ministers in attendance upon the association.
